The majority of the so-called leaders of the planet have just shown the Taliban to be the least of the world's problems,

Corrupt and/or incompetent and disgraceful leaders, including our current appalling Australian government, who openly support the polluting industries that donate huge amounts of money to keep their puppets in power, have decided to discard humans in favour of themselves. It seems that it is mostly those who don't have planet-polluting interests that have bothered to try and save humanity- with of course some notable exceptions like the United Nations, and similar enlightened global organisations and David Attenborough and Charles, Prince of Wales.

So we are left with two options that can assist humanity in its fight to survive and protect our only home in the universe.

1. Sue them - where there is loss of life or damage to property due to climate change, sue the politicians and governments responsible for their gross negligence and actions leading to loss of life and damage .

2. Boycott all that country's products. Boycott ALL products from those countries that failed to act - and if you cannot appropriate those products elsewhere - make them yourself and the world will come to your doorstep.

We know many humans can be an evil, tawdry planet- and life-destroying bunch - but NOT all of them (us) - and this is the last time the good and decent people of planet earth will need to fight

- as it IS the last time for all of us.
